

CS1006 Eliza Project Individual Report

My partner for this project was amazing. He did his fair share with the project, doing 1 of the scripts for Eliza, fixing up and improving a lot of the code I wrote and wrote a good chunk of the main report. When doing this project my partner create and wrote some basic infrastructure for Eliza to use (the classes and some method names as well as getter, setter and constructors). We wrote the main chunk of code together with me actually writing the code and him aiding in it by helping with syntax and documentation.

I wrote the politician and psychotherapist scripts for Eliza and the overview and design in the report. My partner improved and debugged a lot of the code that I wrote making them more efficient/ readable. We both wrote a decent amount of comments in the code ourselves and It is my belief that we both contributed a fairly equal amount of ideas each.
